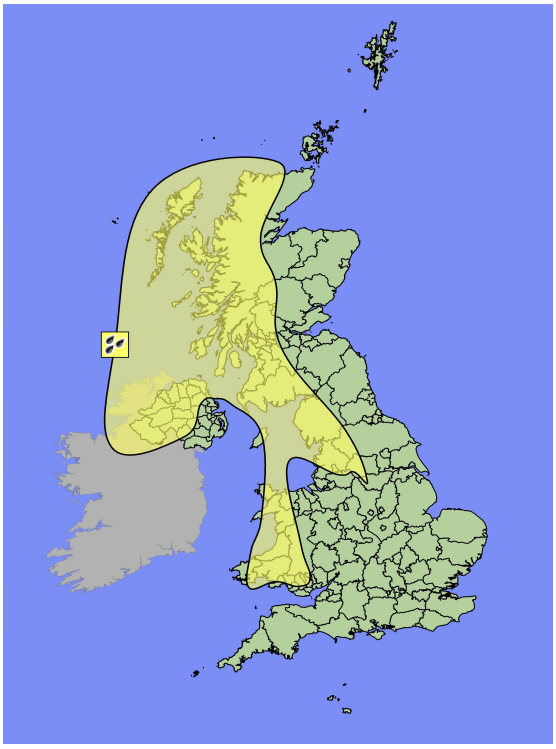
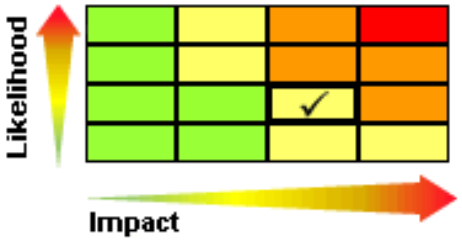
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active frontal system moving southeastwards across the UK on Wednesday will bring prolonged rain, heavy at times to northwestern areas during the morning and to many other western regions through the rest of the day. Accumulations of 40 to 60 mm of rain are possible over high ground in parts of Wales, northwest England, western Scotland and the north and west of Northern Ireland and may lead to localised flooding, as the ground is already saturated from recent heavy rain.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 09:00 on Wed, 04th Jan 2012 until 23:59 on Wed, 04th Jan 2012

Another spell of wet and windy weather will affect the UK during Wednesday. The public should be aware that heavy rain, accompanied by strong winds, may lead to localised flooding in western areas.
